Victory Rally Inaugurates Bond Drive

The Student Council has inaugurated a new War Bond and Stamp Drive. A Bond stand has been erected in the Cafeteria, and Mr. Charles Bagley is general chairman of the drive.

This drive furnishes an excellent opportunity for Loyola men to do their part in winning the war. The students are urged to acquire the habit of buying at least one stamp a day, and, above all, to have their families buy their bonds through the College. The stand in the Cafeteria is open every lunch period.

"We have a long way to go to reach the $20,000 goal, but if every student buys a stamp a day and encourages his family to buy their bonds here, we can surpass that total easily. So let's all 'Back the Attack' with a 'Stamp A Day,'" said Mr. Bagley.

The students of Loyola bought $25,000 worth of Bonds and Stamps last year on the campus in a campaign sponsored by THE GREYHOUND. Their readiness to aid in our country's conflicts will be carried on in the present campaign.

Thus far a sizeable amount of Bonds and Stamps has been sold in the Cafeteria, and the Bond stand has become a popular spot during the lunch periods.

A bond rally attended by the entire student body was held on Monday. Featured were a stamp auction, and speeches by members of the Victory Commission at Loyola College.

Teachers of Men...Priests of God...Soldiers for God

Rev. Thomas P. Ward, S. J.

Rev. Arthur A. North, S. J.

Three former professors are now serving as Chaplains in the armed forces. Fr. North left for the Army Air Force Chaplain School on Feb. 18, 1942. Fr. Ward, former History Professor and Student Counselor, is a Navy Chaplain. Rev. Richard F. Grady, now an Army Chaplain, was head of the English Department until 1942.

Math Professor Weds Former Seton Teacher

Mr. Joseph S. May, professor of mathematics at Loyola, was married to Miss Cecelia Dohony of Baltimore, on February 19. The wedding took place at St. Anthony's Church in this city.

Mr. May graduated from Loyola High School in 1931 and is a member of the class of 1935 of Loyola College. He taught mathematics at Blakefield for eight years before becoming professor of mathematics here.

Greyhound Writer Attends Adult Education Lectures

By John Ahlers

"The inauguration of an extensive, permanent Adult Education series here at Evergreen has been received with a very enthusiastic response and the results are extremely gratifying," stated the Rev. Joseph Donceel, S. J., Dean of the newly-formed Adult Education program.

"Over one hundred adults, including several service men, have already registered and have been admitted into one or more of the seven courses now being offered. Additional applications are being received daily. We fully intend to make the series a permanent feature at Loyola, and at some time in the future, courses in science, the fine arts, and various other subjects, will be added to the schedule."

The students are assigned regular homework, use standard text books, and are urged to copy the notes that are dictated during the evening. In general, the attitude of the students attending the classes is one of serious and mature concern.

Regular tests are given, and the members of the classes may try for college credits in the subjects which they are taking if they wish to do so. This, however, is purely optional, and the benefits of the course, according to Fr. Donceel, "lie mainly in the systematic and cultural aspect in which the subject matter is handled and developed."

The present series of evening lectures is conveniently divided throughout the week with Fr. Drane conducting public speaking courses on Monday and Tuesday; Fr. Cawley teaching Spanish on Monday, and Fr. Donceel holding psychology classes on Tuesdays. Effective writing periods are under the guidance of Fr. Gibbons on Wednesday nights. History is taught by Dr. Doehler on Thursdays, and the Friday night sessions are directed by Fr. Herlihy in Theology, and Fr. Ayd, who holds Labor Relations classes at St. Ignatius', Calvert and Madison streets. Classes start promptly at eight p. m. and new applicants are invited.

Third of Warring Alumni Commissioned Officers

By J. Alban Eagers

Over a hundred names have been added to the last service roll published in THE GREYHOUND. Six months ago the list numbered 710 alumni. Today the list includes 815 men representing Loyola actively in the war.

Although Loyola's enrollment is small, at present, the rate at which her men are entering the armed forces has not decreased. This was due mainly to the fact that in the last half year two classes have been graduated and almost all of these men immediately entered the service.

Medairy Frosh President

George Medairy was elected President of the Freshman Class in elections held on February 18. John Seifert was elected Vice-President, Robert Hiltz, Secretary, and Jerome Mack, Treasurer.

Medairy is of the accelerated January class of Loyola High School. He is attending Loyola under a scholarship, and was awarded the Loyola High School medal for general excellence.

Many Join V-7

Of the October 10 graduating class, 28 entered the Navy under the V-7 Plan and another large percentage entered the Naval Reserve. The V-7 program was closed to the class of January 16 and most of the class entered the Army via the selective service.

For those interested in statistics it was found that of the 815 in the armed forces, 468 are in the Army, and 299 in the Navy. The Marine Corps accounts for 31, the Coast Guard for 11, and the Maritime Service for 6.

One-Third Officers

Another point of interest may be found in the fact that the ratio of officers to men in the Army and Navy is 1 to 18. However, in reviewing our list we find that the ratio among our alumni is better than 1 to 3. This is a very gratifying fact. But even this does not tell the whole tale, for a very large percentage of the two thirds who are not officers are made up of alumni in Army and Navy colleges.

Fighting Loyola men have distinguished themselves all over the globe. One was a member of the heroic band at Bataan, another was at Pearl Harbor on December 7, still another was aboard the aircraft carrier Lexington when she was sunk in the Pacific. Several have been awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross, and one is credited with commanding a bomber which has a record of sinking four submarines.

Division Of Officers

Of the 274 officers among the alumni the ranks are divided as follows: Army, Second Lieutenants, 81; First Lieutenants, 22; Captains, 15; Majors, 6; Lieutenant Colonels, 1; Colonels, 2. Navy, Ensigns, 86; Lieutenants (j.g.) 51; Lieutenants, 5; Lieutenant Commanders, 4.

The highest ranking officers are: Colonel Leo A. Codd, '16; Colonel John P. Ryan, '27; Lieutenant Colonel John Patrick, '31; Major Harry P. Galligher, '11; Major Pierre A. Kleff, '27; Major James A. Maguire, '40; Major Edward A. McClure, '38; and Major F. Betzold, '40 in the Army, and Lieutenant Commander William D. Hodges, '22; Lieutenant Commander Joseph V. Jeppi, '27; Lieutenant Commander Simon Kemp, '30 and Lieutenant Commander F. K. Morris, '23 in the Navy.

Alumni Hold Annual Banquet

Council Boosts Extracurriculars

"A greater interest in extracurricular activities has been the keynote of the past few Student Council meetings," stated David Buchness, Council president, in a recent interview.

"The War Bond Drive, with Charles Bagley as chairman, has gotten off to a real start, and quite a few students are regularly purchasing stamps at the booth in the Cafeteria. However, much remains to be done in this field.

"The Sodality is sponsoring a drive for funds for the relief of the conquered peoples of Europe. The money collected in this way will be sent to the Vatican where it will be distributed to the suffering populations of the European countries.

"The high-spot of the initiation of the Freshman class to college life was reached when the annual Freshman Welcoming Dance was presented by the Sophomore Class on February 21. Mike Molloy, Sophomore class president, reported the dance a success.

"Another feature of Freshman week," continued the Council president, "was the presentation of two one-act plays on Friday evening, February 18. These were very well received by the First Year men. Franny Locke, the Dramatic Club president, announced that similar programs are being planned for the remainder of the term.

"The Freshman class nominations and elections were held during the week of February 14, and the president of First Year now holds a seat in the weekly Council meetings."

According to the graduates, their Annual Alumni Banquet was a huge success. Main feature of the evening was a film entitled "War Department Report" which was made available through the cooperation of General Philip Hayes and Major Edward Vinnecombe.

The large turnout of all Alumni on the Home Front, and the wide range of the classes which they represented, was a tribute to the efforts of Robert Botta, Chairman of the Committee, who arranged the details of the evening with his competent group of Class Captains.

Robert B. Bouchelle, '30, Chairman of the Father-Son Days of the Alumni Association, promises a gala evening for all at the next gathering on March 19. The entertainment, which will include swimming, billiards, pingpong, singing and reminiscent speeches by the Alumni, is scheduled to get under way at 7 p. m.

McGee And Sinush Prisoners Of Axis

James F. McGee, ex '40, a member of the Coast Artillery in the United States Army, was captured by the Japanese at the fall of Corregidor in the spring of '42. McGee entered the Army on May 7, 1941, exactly seven months before the outbreak of World War II. Later he was transferred to the Philippines after volunteering for foreign service.

Sinush Prisoner

Victor Sinush, '42, at first reported killed in action, has, by the latest bulletins, been taken prisoner by the Nazis and is now in a German prison camp.

Biographies Of Loyola's Dead In Armed Services

James S. Knell, ex '43

On August 28, 1943, word came of the death of James S. Knell. He was reported missing in action on March 17, but confirmation of his death was delayed until August.

Seaman Knell entered Loyola College in the fall of 1939, and remained a student here until the autumn of 1942, when he enlisted in the Navy. He was sent to the Great Lakes Naval Training Station where he qualified as a gunner in the Naval Reserve.

Jim Knell carried on the tradition of the Knell family for patriotic sacrifices as his brother William A. Knell was reported missing previous to this date. Their father was the famous Doctor William A. Knell.

Mark W. Jenkins, ex '44

Mark Wilcox Jenkins, ex '44, crashed to death in early December of 1943 while on active duty with the United States Marine Air Corps.

Although he had completed but one year of his college course, he left to join the Naval Air Corps and was sent to the Pensacola Florida Air Base for preliminary training. He was later transferred to Corpus Christi, Texas, where he won his wings.

Since Mark obtained his commission with exceptionally high grades, he was allowed to choose the Marine Air Corps as the branch of the service which he most preferred. Having entered this service arm he was sent to Jacksonville, Florida, for further training before he was scheduled to be sent overseas.

Charles Alfred McCollum, ex '44

Ensign Charles Alfred McCollum, ex '44, was killed in a plane crash off Catalina Island while stationed at the California Naval Air Base.

While cruising at 10,000 feet McCollum's engine went dead, and his plane crashed into the sea.

After having completed two years at Loyola College, McCollum enlisted in the Naval Air Corps and was sent to Athens, Georgia, for his preliminary training. He was later transferred to Pensacola where he was awarded his Navy wings.

While at Loyola McCollum was very active in extracurricular activities. He was notable as a member of the basketball squad, and as a public speaker of renown.

William A. Knell, '40

Second Lieutenant William A. Knell, U.S.A.A.F. was reported missing in action on January 31, 1943, when he failed to return from a foray in a P-38 over Tunisia. Later, his death was confirmed.

After receiving his degree at Loyola College in June, 1940, Bill joined the Army Air Corps and received his wings on May 31, 1942, in Victorville, California. After being on active duty for about four months in the African theatre, he was reported missing by the War Department. Later, news of his death reached home.

Bill was very active in sports and extracurricular activities. He was manager of the basketball team and gained quite a reputation for himself as captain of the tennis team. It was he who brought tennis into its own as a sport at Loyola. In 1939, under his leadership, the squad gained a fine reputation among eastern colleges. The following year, the team trounced every other state team, and finished with a record of fourteen wins as against only two losses. Besides this, he was a member of the Social Science Club, International Relations Club and a member of the Evergreen staff.

William T. Goodwin, ex '43

The tenth Loyola alumnus to lose his life in this war is William T. Goodwin, ex '43, who was killed in a training accident on January 10, 1944, while on duty with the Naval Air Corps.

Cadet Goodwin came to Loyola in the autumn of 1939 and entered into many extra-curricular activities with his characteristic enthusiasm. On the athletic field he played J. V. basketball, and was a member of the varsity baseball team.

He was one of the leaders in the Sodality and the Holy Name Society. Always interested in aviation, he enlisted in the Naval Air Corps soon after Pearl Harbor. Here, his previous experience in the C. A. A. aided him, and he advanced rapidly in his classes. He had just been transferred to the Marine Air Corps when his death occurred.

Bernard Shea, ex '29

The oldest alumnus to meet death was Bernard Shea of the class of 1929. Shea died while in service at a Naval Hospital in Cleveland, Ohio, in November, 1943.

Shea entered Loyola in the heyday of athletics, and was one of the outstanding athletes of his class. As a football player he was best known for his versatility in alternating between the positions of quarterback and halfback.

His prowess in sports was not confined to football, but included baseball, in which he proved a capable third baseman.

At the outbreak of the present conflict, Bernie enlisted in the Medical Corps of the Navy. He was serving as Pharmacist's Mate, second class, at the time of his death.

Harry L. Rogers, ex '43

Harry L. Rogers, ex '43, was killed in an accident while training with the Naval Air Corps. Rogers is among those who lead the list of the early entrants into the war, having enlisted long before hostilities were begun.

While at Loyola Harry was extremely prominent in the social activities around the campus. He was very popular with his classmates, and was instrumental in making many of the college dances memorable successes.

After entering Loyola in 1939, he continued to be an ardent sports fan until his departure, and was continually "up-to-date" on the happenings of the Greyhounds. He was the first to die in service.

Frank S. Brown, '40

Ensign Frank Brown was the second alumnus to lose his life in action. He was killed in the South Pacific area when his fighter plane fell into the sea on April 9, 1942.

At Loyola, Ensign Brown, grandson of former Governor Brown of Maryland, was a member of the Lacrosse team and also a member of the first class in the C. A. A. course in flying when it was established in 1939.

Ensign Brown joined the Navy Air Corps in 1941, and received his training at Pensacola, Florida. He received his commission in November of 1941. He served on an unidentified aircraft carrier during the last days of his life. It was from this carrier that he made his final fateful flight.

John N. Delahay, ex '43

Pfc. John N. Delahay was killed in the North African campaign on April 21, 1943. Pfc. Delahay was recommended for Officers Candidate School at the completion of his basic training, but his regiment was ordered overseas before he could enter.

A few days prior to his death, Jack Delahay assisted in the sacrifice of the Mass at the battle front in which an ammunition case served as the altar. His death was a severe blow to his family and the great number of his friends in Baltimore, especially those in the neighborhood of Sts. Philip and James Church.

John Delahay came to Loyola College in 1938 from Loyola High School where he starred on the football team in a triumphant season, and was chosen a member of the All Maryland Football Squad. During his short stay at Loyola he served the College both faithfully and capably.

Walter F. Collins, ex '43

Cadet Walter "Rip" Collins was killed in a training plane crash at Corpus Christi, Texas, on April 27, 1943. Cadet Collins was to have received his wings and commission in the Naval Air Corps on the very day of the accident.

He entered the Air Corps in July, 1942, two years after he had begun his studies at the College. While at Loyola, "Rip" was very active in sports, playing football on both the Freshman and Sophomore teams. He was also a devoted member of the Sodality. Rip graduated from Loyola High School in 1940, and throughout his college career he personified the perfect Catholic gentleman in everything he did.

Richard H. McCaffrey, ex '37

Lieutenant (j. g.) Richard H. McCaffrey, U.S.N.R., was killed in action in the Mediterranean area two years after the Japanese sneak attack on Pearl Harbor. He had been on active duty since the beginning of the African campaign.

Lieutenant McCaffrey attended Loyola in 1934 and 1935. He entered reserve military training in September 1941, and was commissioned a Lieutenant on December 15 of the same year.

Prior to his enlistment he was employed by the International Business Machine Corporation at its local office. At the time of his death he was 24 years old and unmarried.

At Loyola, McCaffrey made a great many acquaintances, lasting friendships, and was a stellar athlete.

CONGRATULATIONS!

Midshipman Daniel H. Bathon, '43, USNR, passed the Maryland Certified Public Accountant examination successfully. Dan is the youngest man in the history of the exams to do so. He was on THE GREYHOUND Staff for three years while at Loyola.

Time of Opportunity

These are the times of opportunity and for individual initiative. All of us have heard that countless times before. The Very Reverend Edward B. Bunn, President of Loyola College, has emphasized it continually in addresses, both public and private, to the student body.

And it is time that all of us began fully to realize the meaning of those words 'time of opportunity' and 'individual initiative' as they apply to our college lives.

At college we are preparing by our specialized courses to be of service to our country both during the war and in the reconstruction period to follow that war. It is essential that we accept the opportunities which are continually being afforded us, in order to make the most of our college career.

The depletion of Loyola's Student Body has at least one benefit for the men remaining. Individual initiative is at a premium; never before have men with ideas been so needed to keep extracurricular activities going. Never before have the facilities of Loyola been so open to use, calling for men with initiative to make full use of them.

The time for opportunity is upon us. Time is ammunition. Make use of it now!

The Reader's Right

Reverend Edward B. Bunn, S. J.
Loyola College
Baltimore, Maryland

Dear Father,

I want to thank you and the college for the Christmas card that I have just received. I hope the verse that it contains will soon come true.

Religion and the love of God and trust in Him comes to one in the war zone very quickly and very clearly—especially to those engaged in actual combat such as the infantry and artillery.

I am very sorry that I am unable to write you a longer letter at this time but I'm expecting to go up with the infantry as a forward observer for the artillery at any moment, so I must get myself and my men ready.

Sincerely yours,
Charles N. Hergenrather, ex '43

To the Editor of THE GREYHOUND

Dear Sir:

I just received my January 21 copy of THE GREYHOUND and want to thank you for it. There's something really swell about reading what the boys are doing on all the many fronts; and, especially, about what's going on at the Loyola front.

Here on maneuvers you get lots of time to muse over the ol' days at Evergreen—and I think that they take on greater meaning as time goes on.

So thanks again and keep those copies coming.

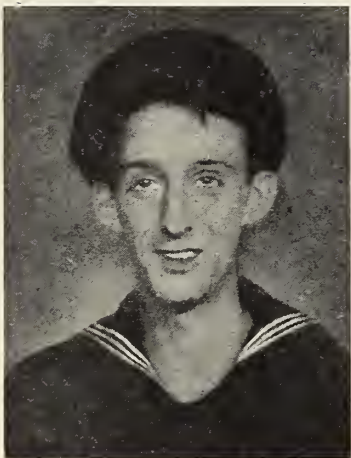

Sincerely,

"The Hawk" And The Saga Of The Sax

Last of the major instruments to arrive in jazz, the saxophone has never proven quite adaptable to the New Orleans style nor seemed quite appropriate in the Chicago style. There have been rare exceptions (Stomp Evans on alto and Happy Cauldwell on tenor in colored ensemble, together with their white counterparts Boyce Brown and Bud Freeman, respectively), but even these fine musicians frequently tend to overburden the melodic section.

The so-called Kansas City, full of riffs and brilliantly scored saxophone ensembles riding over a powerful, driving four-four rhythm, took shape for the first time when the members of Bennie Moten's great organization decided to pattern their music after the famous McKinney Cotton Pickers. Likewise, the K. C. saxophonists took their lead from three McKinney stars, the altos from Don Redman and Benny Carter, the tenors from Coleman Hawkins. Now a former Ellington stalwart, Ben Webster (who has had such an influence on the playing of the white tenor man, Dave Matthews) first gained fame as the Moten tenor soloist. Two later K. C. bands furnished sax experts; the Andy Kirk orchestra featuring the late Dickie Wilson on tenor, while Count Basie threw the spotlight on altoist Tab Smith and tenor man Lester Young and the late Herschel Evans. Entirely original, Young is the only colored saxman who has not gone to Hawkins for inspiration. Even the late Chu Berry and Paul Bascom can be considered followers of "the Hawk". Vido Musso is the finest among many white tenormen who have fashioned their playing on that of Hawkins.

Johnny Hodges, whose genius is so vital and so consistent that other altos sound lukewarm beside him, has a style all his own, impossible to match, too difficult to copy, too intense and personal even to analyze. To a somewhat lesser degree, the same can be said for two white tenors, Bud Freeman and Eddie Miller. The former has been closely identified with Chicago jazz, the latter with Dixieland. Both are highly original, and neither reveals even the slightest trace of Hawkins. But probably the most dependable and capable lead alto in the business is Hilton Jefferson, while Willie Smith is noted as an able and accomplished all-around alto. Incidentally, both musicians are colored. George Auld, whose tenor work appears to combine the styles of Coleman Hawkins and Lester Young, should be mentioned, if only for the brief series of records he made as a member of the Goodman Sextet.

Concerning the Hawk himself, it is best to go to his record "Body and Soul," to study and appreciate the genius of this great musician. On this record he allows his magnificent tone and imagination free rein, and produces a disc that has served as a master pattern for all subsequent tenor sax "concertos" recorded by his many admirers.

Target: Germany. The Army Air Force's official story of the Eighth Bomber Command's first year over Europe. Every American throughout our land will take great pride in reading this fully illustrated narrative of the U. S. Eighth Bomber Command and its historic year of bombing the interior of Germany. To the men who flew on the many dangerous missions, from August, 1942, to August, 1943, destroying Axis military objectives in France and Germany, goes the credit for initiating the downfall of Festung Europa.

Through days and nights of gruelling aerial battle, our airborne soldiers struck relentlessly at the heart of the aggressor's supply bases. Little will ever be known of the heroic sacrifices these men made in the fulfillment of their duties, but the story of much of the adventure which they experienced can now be told. Our soldiers are not super-fighters. They are, as we see from Target: Germany, mere men who know what type of world they want and are willing to sacrifice their lives for the success of that world.

We on the home front owe it not only to ourselves but also to our soldiers to read this tale of their work, so that we can better understand the difficult task completed and the more arduous one that lies ahead. Here is a "must" for all Americans.

The Best Plays of 1942-43, edited by Burns Mantle. With the twenty-sixth edition of the American "bible" of best plays, Mr. Mantle enters his second generation of editing this justly famous series. The past season's theatrical productions have been equaled by almost no other season's presentations. Embracing both the fact and fancy of the playwrights' works, the season was versatile and very entertaining.

The usual supplements of Who's Who in the theatre and the many other features of this volume continue to make it one of the most popular of all theatrical publications.

Saint Teresa of Avila by William Thomas Walsh. This is the story of a sixteenth century saint. Teresa possessed beauty, charm, tenderness and humor beyond the ordinary. She was a woman so devoted to her work that "she slept on bare boards like a beggar, yet expelled a princess, talked to duchesses as an equal, and scolded a king". What this young saint did for the Catholic church and the great sacrifices which she made for the furthering of her cause are told by Mr. Walsh in his latest work.

Saint Teresa led a life of extreme sanctity while living in a world of pleasure-seeking nobility. Her exemplary life aided her in reestablishing the Carmelite order as a cloistered contemplative group. Teresa herself found many new convents, which supplied the "spiritual ammunition" for Christ's fighting forces in the front line.

THE FIFTH COLUMN

There has been a notable silence in the atmosphere of THE GREYHOUND office since Alton McCarthy and Pinky Williams left the campus two months ago. No longer do we enjoy our weekly readings from the Koran and other selected prose, but we are still reaping benefits from a copy of "The But-terick Book of Recipes and Household Helps" left to the staff by Mr. Williams.

March Winds

Very clever of Tom Gisriel to give a certain Math professor the wedding present from the class before the Calculus test. We don't think it helped though.

Night after night lights are burning brightly in the Organic Lab as pre-med students hover over boiling cauldrons. We don't know how true it is but we heard that a haggard looking figure staggered out of the Science Building the other night, stopped for a moment, pointed at the Library Building and exclaimed: "How long has that thing been there?"

The authorities are still looking for the student who started a near riot in the cafeteria the other day, when he whispered to a friend: "There's only two Hershey bars left."

Envious eyes are being cast at the War Bond Booth in the cafeteria by a certain book-store proprietor. "How can they keep going? . . . no profit at all," we have heard him mumbling to himself.

Running With The Hounds

By Bill Meyer

The most comical sports event that is taking place around the college at present is the intramural basketball league play. The many spectators at the lunch hour endurance contests can always be seen laughing and roaring at the futile attempts of the contestants on the court who are seriously trying to out-score their opponents and failing miserably in attempting to imitate the professional antics of the Green and Gray squad. That is, all except for a few who have developed into promising basketball players like Art Rhoads, Gerry Gaudreau, Lou Franz, Frank Goldsmith, and Dan Feeney, plus the "B" squad members, including Bill Thaler, Herb Prescott, Frank Cashen, Bill Hodges, "Nemo" Haslbeck, and George Mentis.

The majority of the hopeful aspirants are refugees of Lefty Reitz's physical training classes.

The members of the varsity quint act as referees, and they literally have their hands full with the nonsensical antics of the would-be stellar basketballers. Daily, the witnessing students file from the gymnasium retelling the incredible incidents which have just occurred. Among the most unusual happenings are: Paul Boggs dribbling the basketball onto the court instead of throwing it to one of his teammates; Jack Hupfer, who continually confuses basketball and indoor "Reitz-Krieg", dashing the entire length of the playing court with the ball hidden under his long arms; and the unusual habit of Jim Shimek who invariably dribbles backwards, confusing his squad and the opponents'.

The day that "Slaughterhouse" Goldsmith was credited with six head-on collisions into his opponents climaxes the usual run of ludicrous tales which permeate the after-game sessions in Lefty's office. However, the clinching incident occurred when the officials had to call a time-out to allow Sal Cammarata, the referee, to control his rolling laughter over Larry "Wrong-Way" Bockstie, who galloped with the basketball towards the enemies' goal, only to be stopped by one of his exasperated team mates.

Not since the days when Charles "Chuck" Barrett, the former Editor of THE GREYHOUND, displayed and attempted to auction off his complete set of new false teeth, has any one incident occupied the conversations of the students, as the present intramural gossip. There will be need of many drastic changes in the basketball world if the intramural cagers keep forgetting that the game they are playing is called basketball and not Mayhem.

Hounds Ruffle Hens, 45-37

With Jim Lacy pacing the squad, the Greyhounds came through to nose out the Blue Hens from Delaware, 45-37. All during the tilt the Loyola quint outclassed and outplayed the visitors.

Although Jerry Bowlus took the scoring honors with twenty-three counters, it should be noted that during the entire game he took a total of forty-one shots, only tallying on ten of them.

Ed McGarry and Gene O'Connor both played important roles in the Greyhound victory. Ed accounted for seven points, while Gene dropped in nine counters to aid the Loyola attack.

Coach Lefty Reitz was free with his reserves, allowing all of them to play for some time during the game. Still, the Loyola shooting and defense was too much for the Newark team. Repeatedly they tried to cut through the Green and Gray man-for-man, but the height and speed of the Evergreen five saw their threats repulsed.

Villanova Tops Loyola, 55-52

A spectacular finish sparked by Bill Feeney gave Villanova a 55-52 victory over the Hounds in one of the closest and most exciting basketball battles ever waged between the two keen-edged rivals.

The Hounds led the scoring in the first half until a flurry of Villanova tosses broke a 26-26 deadlock and enabled the Wildcats to leave at half time with a 32-27 lead. In the early minutes of the second half the Green and Gray overcame the threatening margin to tie the Service quint at 34 all. Then they forged ahead at 36-35 on a field goal by Bill Schanberger. From then on the contest swayed back and forth until the closing minutes of the conflict when Ramsey and Jakeway of Villanova combined to tally the winning counters.

Jim Lacy raced away with high scoring honors when he tossed in twenty-five tallies, followed by Gene O'Connor's total of twelve. Ed McGarry and Bill Schanberger tallied six and five points respectively.

Hounds Strafe Eagles, 58-44

Lacy Sets New Scoring Record

Paced by Jim Lacy, who hung up a new scoring record for the Loyola College field house, Loyola raced to a 58-44 win over American University in their ninth conference victory. Lacy scored thirty-two points, dropping thirteen field goals and making good six out of seven times from the foul line.

The Green and Gray quint drove into an early lead and were never headed. The closest the Eagles could come to catching the fast moving Hounds was a 19-21 count in the first half, but the Hounds moved too fast and at halftime held a 29-23 advantage.

Bill Schanberger, playing his last game for the Greyhounds before entering the Navy's V-12 program the first of March, was given a rousing ovation by the crowd. Bill bowed out in style as he tallied eight points.

When the visitors found their zone defense cut to threads, they switched to man-for-man, but neither style was very effective against the high flying Hounds. Bud Citrenbaum, diminutive south-paw artist, led the Eagles' offense as he chalked up sixteen points.

Bill Schanberger Enters Villanova As V-12 Student

Bill Schanberger, ex '45, left Loyola College early this week to enter the United States Naval Reserve. Bill had enlisted in the V-12 program last December, and he received orders to report to Villanova College on March first.

As a Freshman at Loyola, Bill earned a starting berth as forward on the varsity quint. He has played exceptional basketball during his short career at the college, always remaining cool and calm during the most crucial contests.

Misses Tournament

After playing in all the games, except the two when he was ill, Bill had to miss out on the Mason-Dixon Tournament now being held. Lefty was hoping that Bill could be able to stay until after the tournament, but the Navy called him for active duty last Wednesday. Bill had an excellent future in basketball but will probably remain on the shelf for the duration, that is, unless he is able to resume play on a service team.

On State Championship Squad

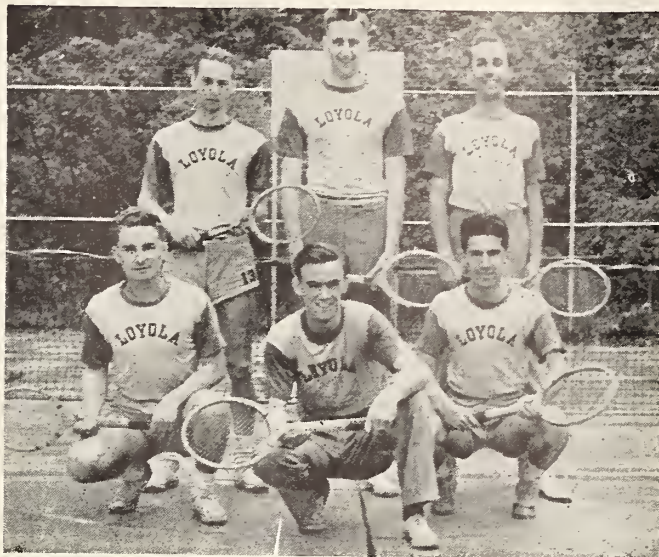

While at Loyola High, Bill played forward on the Maryland State Championship team during the '43 season. On the scholastic side of things, Bill was a constant receiver of first and second honor cards. All during his four years at Blakefield he held class offices and was very popular among the whole student body.

Tribute To A Hero...

The above tennis team which snared the state championship in 1940 was composed of: (front), Schaffner, Knell, and Quinn; (back), Thaler, Cummings, and Horka

Bill Knell, '40, who was reported killed in action in North Africa (see page 3), is best remembered in the field of athletics by the championship tennis team of 1940 of which he was captain, manager, and player. Under Bill's excellent supervision, the team played opposition as far distant as that of the Western Teachers of Kalamazoo, Michigan.

His efforts were well rewarded

when the team won the state championship crown by defeating every state squad encountered. Knell's individual record of twenty-three wins out of twenty-seven matches gave him high honors on the victorious tennis team.

The success of the team was due entirely to Bill's determination and ability. Bill Knell will always remain outstanding in the annals of Evergreen athletics.

Cardinals Top GreenandGray

The Green and Gray squad bowed to a smart and experienced Catholic University five, 51-41, in a return conference match at Evergreen.

The Hounds got off to a seven to four lead in the first four minutes only to have the Cards rack fourteen points to gain and keep the lead. From this time until the last whistle blew, the Cardinals' zone defense again clicked exceptionally well. This defense, paced by the experience and ability of Dick Scanlon, proved too much for the Greyhounds.

At half time the Cards held a 32-16 lead. But the rejuvenated Hounds overshot this deficit to shake the Catholic University quint for twenty-five points, just ten tallies short of catching them.

Again Jim Lacy showed brilliant floor work all during the exciting tilt, as he captured high scoring honors for the evening with nineteen counters. Gene O'Connor and Ed McGarry followed with nine and seven points, respectively.

Greyhounds Trounce Blue Bisons, 52-35

The Greyhounds had little difficulty in turning back Gallaudet's Blue Bisons, 52-35, in their return encounter at Washington.

After a comparatively close first half, in which the Bisons came from behind three times to knot the score, the Hounds started to slide through the Gallaudet zone defense to register a 23-17 halftime lead. In the last period the Greyhounds built up a comfortable advantage and then started to substitute freely.

Gene O'Connor and Jim Lacy were the sparkplugs of the Loyola offensive, O'Connor being particularly effective from the outside. He led the Green and Gray quint with fourteen points while Lacy followed with thirteen. Sal Cammarata led the second squad into action and gathered five points.

Scribe 'Notes' Career Of Student Musician

By John J. Kernan

Young American musicians of today are being offered many opportunities which should prove invaluable in later years. One of Baltimore's most enterprising musicians is Johnny Grimm, a sophomore at Loyola College. Boasting an all girl glee club, a military band, a symphony orchestra and a swing band, Johnny can justly claim all the praise he receives.

During his high school days at Poly, Johnny was exceptionally active in the musical clubs there. With only a few hours of formal musical training on which to rely, Grimm began playing percussion instruments in Poly's symphony orchestra. The school's military band kept him occupied as drum major for three and a half years. Poly's glee club also found him an active member.

As a diversion, Johnny organized his own swing band. The members of this group were drawn from the high schools of Baltimore. However, Grimm maintained his policy of never asking school authorities to recruit musicians for him. Thus his organizations have remained non-partisan. Johnny's swing band had the honor of playing in the Poly Follies for three consecutive years.

"The musicians who work with me like to divide their interests between semi-classical works and modern numbers," said the maestro. "But I think that the majority of America's young musicians prefer semi-classical music."

Upon entering Loyola, Johnny kept his activities running at full speed by enlarging his symphony orchestra, which now numbers forty-five members. The swing band with thirteen men, and the military band with thirty members are continuing their work despite wartime curtailments. The draft boards have so far taken more than fifty per cent of his personnel.

Unionism has never bothered Johnny for none of his musicians belong to a union.

Grimm has never had any direct sponsor. But at the present time he has the use of Moose Hall, where he rehearses with his different organizations. He is staging a concert and dance on March 6 and 7, under the sponsorship of the Moose. Johnny plans to use all four of his groups in this concert.

For a young college student working with musicians whose ages range from fifteen to twenty years, this is a man-sized job. So the "best of luck," Johnny, now and in future years.

Have a "Coke" = A thousand miles is not too far to come

... or being friendly with a Chinese cadet

Chinese flyers here in America for training have found that so simple a phrase as Have a "Coke" speaks friendship in any tongue. East, west, north, south, Coca-Cola stands for the pause that refreshes, — has become the happy bond between people of good will.

"Coke" = Coca-Cola
It's natural for popular names to acquire friendly abbreviations. That's why you hear Coca-Cola called "Coke".
